

March 2007 saw the launch of EVOLENCE™ a new injectable collagen-based treatment that is safe, natural and capable of smoothing out facial lines and wrinkles as well as restoring volume and plumpness to the skin. People who want to revitalise their appearance and bring back the structure of much younger skin can now choose a solution that doesn't need costly repeat treatment every few months. EVOLENCE™ has an excellent safety profile and breaks down naturally over time, just like the body's own collagen. EVOLENCE™ is injected into the skin by a trained health professional using a fine needle syringe. The material is injected where the body's own collagen has been weakened.

Anna Summerton

aged 33 from Oxfordshire

I did my homework before I went ahead for treatment. I researched both on the net and spoke to friends who had already undergone various non surgical procedures. I knew that a good reputation was paramount, so I was referred by a friend to the nursing specialists at MBNS Clinic. They have over fifteen years experience and are the number one clinic in Oxfordshire and surrounding areas for the treatment of fillers. I met for a consultation with Senior Partner, Marea Brennan Thorns who advised that I receive a volumising treatment with EVOLENCE™.

I have always felt that my face was too thin. During pregnancy I was so pleased with the extra weight visible in my face. However, after having my children, my weight returned to normal and I felt that my face really became too long and thin. I also swim and exercise a lot. With wet hair my face appeared elongated and I just wanted some volume/weight in my cheeks. I also had a little furrow in my nose and had no idea that Evolence could be used to correct this as well.

In the warm and welcoming clinic at MBNS, I discussed my situation with Marea and she suggested that the best way to achieve the look I wanted was to be treated with Evolence, a collagen product which would be injected into both cheeks and the little furrow in my nose. This has provided me with a healthy, natural look. It has made such a difference to the way I feel about myself. It is only slight but I love the effect it has.

Through its patented GLYMATRIX™ Technology, EVOLENCE™ extends the natural and immediate benefits of collagen for at least 12 months—with no pre-testing required. See for yourself why over 96% of patients surveyed were satisfied or very satisfied with their own true results. ●
