

Charlotte Collins visits the MBNS Clinic in Thame to discover more about a ground-breaking skin treatment.

Imagine a treatment that can treat fine lines and wrinkles, improve the appearance of acne scars and finer stretch marks, improve textural irregularities and broken blood vessels, treat brown spots and sun damage, and tighten skin, and all in one sitting! Now imagine you can achieve all this in a treatment that requires little or no skin-recovery or downtime, and is clinically proven for all skin types.

The nurses at MBNS Clinic in Thame are breaking new ground in the field of cosmetic medicine by offering a new treatment, years ahead of current skin rejuvenation options. Marea Brennan Thorns, Stephanie Green and Paula Shurrock are amongst the first clinicians in the UK to introduce this exciting treatment, which uses 'fractional technology' to provide every patient with the chance to achieve astonishing results.

The treatment is known as the eMatrix. It can be used to remedy a whole variety of skin conditions including acne scarring, brown, red and pink spots, fine lines and wrinkles, sun or tanning damage, textural irregularities and fine stretch marks.

So how does it work? Well, here's the scientific bit. The-Matrix delivers fractionated bi-polar radio frequency energy, making it an entirely distinctive cosmetic way to treat the skin. Energy is precisely directed to the skin in tiny matrix spots. The healthy skin around the matrix spots accelerates the healing process of the skin. This process maximizes collagen production. Post treatment, you will notice increased levels of beneficial collagen and new healthy skin cells are produced. Mild to moderate wrinkles and superficial skin discolourations are reduced and the texture of your skin becomes more smooth and elastic. As the skin heals, so any imperfections are smoothed out. The result is that you look and feel younger.

Sounds great, but is the procedure uncomfortable? Before the treatment, a topical anaesthetic may be applied which will numb the area. During the treatment, many patients feel a warm, prickly sensation as energy enters their skin. After the treatment, a pink or “sunburn” appearance and feeling is normal.

As for the results, MBNS recommend that you have up to three treatments. That way the dramatic improvements tend to last.

I talked to Penny who has recently had a series of eMatrix treatments at the MBNS Clinic to improve her acne scarring. “I have had acne since the age of 13, and although I am now 23, and only suffer a few pimples, it has left me with acne scars around my chin and lower cheeks as well as discolouring,” explained Penny. “One of the nurses recommended a series of treatments with the eMatrix. I have had two treatments, six weeks apart, and the difference it has made to my skin is amazing. Now it looks luminous and smooth.

“I feel so much more confident and I don’t have to use as much make up to cover up. One of the best things about this is that I didn’t have to take time off work, and was able to wear make up the next day. People are complementing me on how great my skin looks, and I am thrilled.

Next I spoke to Anne. “I am lucky enough to work at MBNS and have seen firsthand how the nurses use eMatrix. I witnessed for myself the amazing results they were getting and decided that I wanted a fresher complexion with a lift but without resorting to surgery. So far I have had two treatments, and I can already see a huge improvement, especially to the skin around my eyes and my mouth.”

So impressed was Anne with her treatment that she made a video diary of the changes to her appearance.

To share her delight in the success, she shows the video to visitors to the MBNS clinic, demonstrating the day-to-day improvements in the texture and colour and softness of her skin.

“This is certainly one of the most remarkable new treatments that we have introduced to the clinic,” said Marea Brennan Thorns, “and we’ve been going for 12 years now.”
